Blitzkrieg - Reach Promotions, Fight Organization, Hilo Company profile by Chuck Grace

I was asked to come out to Hilo, and have a short sit down interview with Reach Promotions owner Chuck Grace. There have been lots of rumors floating around the media with Reach having decided to merge into Blitz Down Under, and it seems Mr. Grace wants to set the record straight. So here I find myself in his office with an expansive view of a beautiful beach, and the Pacific.

Despite his reputation as a bit of a joker he's all business when it comes to Reach. I decide to begin our interview:

Interviewer: "So Mr. Grace I guess we can begin."

Chuck: "Well as you know I asked you here today so I can clear up some confusion regarding this merger."

Interviewer: "Oh that's understandable. So how did this all come together?"

Chuck: "Well I'd like to start a little farther back than the initial merger talk. Before we get into that I wanted to just to, first off, thank anyone who has any part of making Reach what it is today. From the junior who mopped up the cap pool fight, to the fighters, and their management staff. I am truly grateful to each of you, and I hope they all understand this merger is what I felt was in the best interest of Reach."

Round 1 Gora opens up with a quick takedown into guard but doesn't get much off and gets stood back up within the first minute. Gora then scores another easy takedown into guard but again isn't able to do anything with it as he stands back up and scores with yet another takedown right back into guard. Gora stands up yet again and best comes forward with a powerful jab that cuts Gora right above the eye. Gora easily reaches out and dumps Best on his back and Gora is in guard yet again. Best throws his legs up looking for a few submissions but Gora uses this to move to half guard. From there both fighters are looking to break each others arms but Gora is able to stay on top until the first round comes to an end.

Fighter profile of Joe Laynpray by Paul Huntingdon

This week Bellator fighter Joe Laynpray sat down and gave an interview on "The Smader's Club" internet radio program. Laynpray is fresh off a victory at Bellator 66. Now he's looking to make his mark and event outside of Los Angeles. The interview was much like one of Laynpray's fights, it dragged on much longer than it should have, there wasn't much excitement, and Joe was in control pretty much the entire time. We've taken the liberty of cutting out the majority of the interview and putting Joe's answers to questions that have plagued him over the course of his career.

On accusations that he is a boring point fighter who makes the fight a wrestling match.

"I do what I'm good at, I wrestled at Pitt in college. I know people think Oklahoma is THE place for wrestling. Gambler has sensational boxing, wonderful mayhem, wonderful wrestling and a big brown belt. Opposing him is Goldsmith with exceptional boxing, superb mayhem, wonderful wrestling and a big brown belt. Neither of these fighters are particularly good anywhere, both having been finished by strikes and submissions before. Jackson does hold a significant experience advantage which I think will carry him to a decision victory."

Thomas vs Gambler
And now its tournament time folks! We has the winless Thomas going up against a boxing and wrestling machine in Gambler. Thomas is definitely going to want to keep that fight standing so he can utilize his sensational boxing and mayhem. But his wonderful wrestling and his purple pale in comparison to his opponents grappling skills. Gambler has sensational boxing, wonderful mayhem, sensational wrestling and a big brown belt. This hasn't been the best of weeks for yours truly but I am going to get it out to get this last preview done! Its time for the Ascension 3 million tournament part 2! We have long time former undisputed pug king Jeremy Toral in our main event, he is also the undefeated favorite to win this thing. Without further ado lets get to the fight!

Jackson vs Goldsmith

We get this card started in the 185 division with two well round fighters looking to climb the ladder in the 185 division here at Ascension. Jackson enters the cage with exceptional boxing, wonderful mayhem, wonderful wrestling and a big brown belt. Opposing him is Goldsmith with exceptional boxing, superb mayhem, wonderful wrestling and a big brown belt.
